An Artist in Residence

This modern, concrete loft reduced to its bare essentials evokes creative, contemporary & pragmatic persuasions. Raw & minimalist in nature. A lesson in living with less while experiencing more. Its intimate visual language illustrates an uncluttered & airy approach. Dramatic subtleties include 14-foot ceilings, black framed floor-to-ceiling warehouse windows, private sleeping chambers, enviable millwork throughout, exposed ducts & exceptional West-Facing light. This secluded residence spans 2,000 square feet over two floors, featuring extraordinary details, finishes & space optimization. The size and scale permit full-sized living & dining and walls begging art collectors & lighting aficionados to show their artistic range. The culinary heart of the home, its kitchen is outfitted with a slated blonde fabrication, Scandi-style cabinetry, a secret storage pantry, a wine fridge and easy five-person in-house seating. Residing within Toronto's architectural heritage, your home at 90 Sumach embodies a remarkable history. Originally built as a warehouse in 1956, the building soon became the design centre for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's television era in 1958. CBC's archives, studios, rehearsal spaces, and workshops have thrived here for decades. Renowned figures such as Glenn Gould, Jim Henson, and Lorne Michaels once worked within these walls. Today, it is home to a vibrant community of artists, designers, and other creative professionals. It was converted into hard lofts by Sorbara Development Group in the mid-1990s and now houses 109 lofts over 8-storeys.

Among the standouts are Corktown Commons Park, the historic Distillery District, Brickworks, Pam McConnell Aquatic Centre, local farmers' markets, and the shops and eateries of King and Queen.

Circumventing predictable descriptors reveals a dynamic landscape where the lively energy of a metropolitan existence blends with the comforts of a real-deal neighbourhood. Corktown offers an eclectic mix of restaurants catering to various palates. Each eatery, unique in its offerings, showcases the neighbourhood's diversity. From avant-garde gastronomic experiences to comfort food that warms the soul, Corktown's dining scene is a testament to Toronto's multicultural ethos. Local hot spots include Gusto 501, White Lilly Diner (Michelin Bib Gourmand), Bonjour Brioche, Lady Marmalade, Impact Kitchen, Rosebud, Tabule and Sukho Thai.

Farmers' markets, such as the Underpass Market on Thursdays and the vibrant Brickworks on Saturdays, are community staples in Corktown. These markets offer fresh, local produce and serve as social hubs where neighbours meet, chat, and bond over a shared love for quality and sustainability. The Leslieville market, a Greenwood Sunday affair, adds to this abundance of local commerce and community engagement. Additionally, the local shops in Corktown are part of the neighbourhood's hidden discoveries. Ralph Fox

FOUNDER, BROKER OF RECORD

Native Torontonian Ralph Fox recognized from an early age that the most successful people in life apply long-term thinking to their investments, relationships, and life goals. It's this philosophy, along with his lifelong entrepreneurial drive and exceptional business instincts, that have helped to establish Ralph as a top broker in the real estate market in downtown Toronto.

From the age of 12, Ralph set his sights on running his own business, and by 14, he'd already started two successful enterprises. After achieving a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Western Ontario, Ralph launched an importing and manufacturing company from the trunk of his car. In his twenties, Ralph continued to hone his negotiating skills by brokering business deals with partners in China, Hong Kong, India and Thailand, while at the same time managing sales agencies in major cities across the U.S. and Canada. Within a few short years, he grew his company into a full-scale operation with sales distribution networks that spanned North America and over time he was able to parlay his business acumen into his other big passion – Toronto's real estate market.

Ralph is a firm believer in the long-term potential of the Toronto real estate market. Ralph is the broker of record and founder of Fox Marin Associates – a boutique, full-service Toronto real estate brokerage with close to a half Billion in sales volume under its belt. Ralph puts his decades of success in Toronto's incredibly competitive marketplace to work, hammering out smart solutions that meet each client's unique personal and financial objectives. He also practices what he preaches, having built a significant and growing residential investment portfolio of his own. Ralph has partnered with some of the largest developers in Canada and has contributed his unique perspective on real estate trends to a wide range of media outlets, including The Globe and Mail, The Huffington Post, Canadian Real Estate Wealth magazine, Global TV News, CTV, Metro News, The Toronto Star, and the New Condo Guide magazine.

Ralph has a keen interest in understanding how to maximize human potential and longevity. As an avid reader, some of his greatest business influences are Warren Buffett, Elon Musk and Richard Branson. Ralph is also a personal performance and leadership coach, certified by the Institute for Professional Excellence in Coaching (IPEC). Ralph holds a Master's Certification in Negotiation from Harvard University and has been asked to judge the University of Toronto-Rotman School of Management's Marketing Case Study Finals.

A true Renaissance man, Ralph enjoys the thrill of fast-paced business negotiations just as much as consulting with clients on trends in architecture and design. His "work-hard-play-hard" mentality means that in his rare off-hours, you're just as apt to catch him lacing up his hockey skates, hitting a new personal record at the gym, enjoying a fine Ripasso in a local Italian restaurant, or wandering Toronto's Annex neighbourhood with brokerage partner Kori Marin and their loveable Rhodesian ridgeback, Draper.

Kori Marin

FOUNDER, BROKER

For high-energy real estate aficionado Kori Marin, a well-lived life is achieved by maintaining an "all-in" attitude that realizes every last ounce of one's full potential. This mindset has driven successful results in every aspect of her life – from her corporate sales and account management experience to her international travels, to her years of fitness training and leadership – and is the hallmark of the exceptional work that she does on behalf of her clients in the residential real estate sector in downtown Toronto.

Kori first exhibited this "all-in" approach when, at the age of eleven, she left home to train as a classical dancer. Later, while studying at Dalhousie University, she determined that the best application of her discipline and personal drive lay in business, where she could continue to test her abilities in new and exciting ways. This led to a seven-year stint in corporate sales, where she managed a $70+ million portfolio of accounts, including a who's who of North American retail giants like Walgreens, Target, CVS and Shoppers Drug Mart. Kori was praised for her analytical mindset and incomparable organizational skills – traits that have also served her well as she's built her own real estate investment portfolio, and would allow her to transition effortlessly into real estate as a full-time career.

Determined as ever, from the moment Kori focused her attention on the real estate industry, people took notice: in her first year, she won Rookie of the Year and President's Sales awards from Royal LePage Real Estate Services, J&D Division – one of the largest and most established brokerages in Toronto. In time, it became apparent that the big luxury brands that often take a "one-size-fits-all" approach to real estate were becoming more and more antiquated, and failed to serve the best interests or the specific needs of Kori's creative, forward-thinking and design-savvy clientele. Because of this, Kori and her partner Ralph made the decision to combine their diverse expertise and complementary skill sets, to revitalize the residential real estate experience for Toronto home buyers, sellers, and investors. And so, Fox Marin Associates was born.

Now among the Top 1% of Toronto Realtors, Kori continues to bring her own brand of charismatic energy, creative integrity, and expertise to her multifaceted work-life: not only is she a managing partner in the unstoppable force that is Fox Marin Associates – a consistently five star-rated brokerage with close to a quarter billion in real estate sales volume in its first three years. She's also an attentive and relatable manager of a growing team of both seasoned and up-and-coming real estate powerhouses in central and downtown Toronto.

When she's not marketing properties for sale, consulting with clients, gaining certifications in Negotiation Mastery from Harvard University, Digital Marketing from Brain Station or taking a turn judging Rotman's Business School Marketing Case Studies, Kori channels her boundless energy into fitness training or hiking with brokerage partner Ralph Fox and their #1 Ridgeless Rhodesian ridgeback, Draper. She also travels widely and has logged many kilometres of exploration around the world. Her favourite journeys to date? Trekking the Annapurna Circuit in Nepal, going on safari in South Africa's Kruger National Park, and visiting the Elephant Nature Park in Chiang Mai, Thailand.
